Although there are many denominations of the Christian faith, there are some practices that unite them all. One of those is the "I Am" doctrine. In John 12, we see that even Jesus, God in the flesh, had moments in which he was troubled and distressed. But even as he faced death, he said "I am the light of the world." Have you ever wondered if it's possible to be doing all the right things for God while quietly drifting away from Him? In Jesus' first sermon in Nazareth, he said "I am the light of the world." In Colossians 3:20-21, the apostle Paul gives instruction to both children and parents. When followed, both parent and child can be free. When Jesus was on the cross, he cried out "It is finished." In those three short words he stated that his mission had ended. He had won. We have more ways to connect than any generation in history. More social media. More content. More messages. More followers. As Jesus prepared to go to the cross, and eventually to Heaven, he made promises to his disciples so that they would be able to be free. Freedom is something
